Final Agreement Is Believed Near on Deficiency Bill

Measure Carries Next Year's Funds for Relief
Purposes

CANCELS CONTRACT

Senate Produces Compromise Plan on Corporation Tax Measure

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Congressional conferees virtually reached an agreement Tuesday on the $2,370,000,000 deficiency bill carrying next year's relief fund except for two items which must be voted on again by the house. Chairman Adams, Democrat of Colorado, of the senate conferees, forecast final agreement would be reached Wednesday except for the two items.

Chairman Adams, schrd 8aridoUk
The items are the Florida ship canal project and the $300,000,000 new public works fund.

Cancels Contract
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary Ickes Tuesday cancelled a $40,860,000 contract with Jones & Laughlin Steel company of Pittsburgh because, he said, it had been "found guilty by the national labor relations board of unfair labor practices."

Tax Bill Unsettled
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senate tax bill conferees produced a new compromise plan Tuesday settling key troubles over corporation taxes, but it met with no immediate favor among the house conferees.

Chairman Doughton, North Carolina Democrat of the house group who is seeking to reconcile differences with the senate, said that several senators who had left the morning session early, had submitted "a counter proposal."

Doughton would not give details.

Collections Increase
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau said Tuesday that income tax collections for the first 15 days of June showed an increase of slightly more than 18 per cent over the comparable period last year.

Discrimination Bill
WASHINGTON—(AP)—The anti-price discrimination bill was approved by the house Tuesday and is now ready for final action by the senate.

Storm Is Heading Toward Bermuda

Three Patrol Fliers Lost
in Storm When Plane
Falls Into Bay

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—(AP)—The summer's first tropical storm in this part of the world picked up new vigor Tuesday and headed in the general direction of Bermuda.

Reports said the disturbance was moderate in intensity.

Three coast guard fliers on storm patrol duty lost their lives early Monday in a blustery tropical disturbance which isolated South Florida communities by floods.

The coast guardmen, Lieutenant Charles Martin Perrott, pilot, Radioman Walter O. Morris and Mechanic William D. Eubanks, were killed when their plane plunged into Tampa bay near St. Petersburg.

Turned Brown By Brown Turner

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(Special)—Most World War vets have lined up for seconds. Great stuff, back pay is, and this particular buck pay may do a lot of good before it gets back into Uncle Sam's jeans, which it will, eventually. Of course a lot of it will be salted down for a rainy day, which reminds me this section of the Tennessee Valley is in downright need of a good soaking. Been so long without rain it looks like Congress had something to do with it and the Supreme Court turned 'em down.

See where a man named Landon who lives in Kansas is again the New Deal.

Half Holiday in Hope Is Proposed

Movement to Get Business
Houses to Close Each
Thursday Noon

D. B. Thompson said Tuesday that a movement would be started here within the next few days to get local business houses to close for a half holiday beginning the first Thursday in July and continuing until the last Thursday in August.

Mr. Thompson said the proposal had been discussed with several business houses and had met approval. He said that he would poll the other establishments within the next few days.

Mr. Thompson pointed out that many other Arkansas cities and towns closed each Thursday at noon throughout the summer months and said that he believed the plan would meet with favor here.

Announce Payment to Cotton Farmers

Hempstead Co. Has Received $9,567.83 Under Adjustment Plan

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Extension Director C. C. Dandall announced Monday that Arkansas cotton producers have received $4,833,394.80 in price adjustment payments on the 1935 crop. This represents payment on 25,340 applications, involving 50,598,231 pounds of cotton.

Randall said that Arkansas producers are expected to receive approximately four million dollars in price adjustment payments. This payment represents the difference between the average price of cotton on the 10 spot market, designated by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration on the date of sale, and 12 cents.

Counties in which payments have been made and the amounts include: Hempstead, $9,567.83; Howard, $2,494.05; Little River, $5,651.71; Miller, $40,992.31; Nevada, $10,559.37; Oneida, $8,364; Pine, $2,344.28; Polk, $676.10; Sevier, $1,700.53.

Death Penalty Is Hinted at Trial

Charles J. Hanev to Stand Trial in the Death of His Niece

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—A jury qualified for the death penalty was completed late Monday in the murder trial of Charles J. Hanev, 55, North Little Rock second-hand clothing dealer accused of the ax slaying last month of Mrs. Essie McCloister, his 22-year-old niece and housekeeper.

Hanev showed little interest in selection of the jury to try him. Detective Chief J. C. McDougal quoted him following his arrest as saying the killing occurred during a squabble when he sought to recover a wallet he accused Mrs. McCloister of taking from his clothing. Her body was found in the Arkansas river.

DISCUSS VOTE DRIVE

"Alfalfa Bill" Murray Also Visits Landon at Topeka

TOPEKA, Kas.—(AP)—Governor Landon and Col. Frank Knox clasped hands Tuesday with the avowed determination to "let the truth be known about the vital issues in their campaign" and to lead the Republican party to victory in the November presidential election.

Meeting for the first time as the Republican presidential and vice-presidential nominees, the two men stood on the steps of the Kansas State capital and chatted confidentially preparatory to study the strategy with the high command of the party.

Campaign Plans

TOPEKA, Kas.—(AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon and his red-haired campaign manager, John D. M. Hamilton, laid a plan of battle across the luncheon table Monday after a significant morning conference between the Republican presidential nominee and the militant Oklahoman, "Alfalfa Bill" Murray.

Hamilton came home from Cleveland to a rousing ovation from his friends and neighbors just after Murray, Democratic ex-governor of Oklahoma, left the capitol expressing approval of the Republican platform. Murray declined, however, to say in so many words that he would support Landon.

"I am advocating Democratic principles wherever I find them," said Murray. "I am not talking about parties or candidates."

So deeply were Landon and Hamilton engrossed in pointing for Tuesday's all-important meeting that Col. Frank Knox, vice presidential nominee, and party leaders that their conversation extended late into the afternoon. Cancellation of Landon's regular afternoon press conference precluded immediate comment on such points of strategy as the campaign participation of Senator Borah, the independent Republican from Idaho, and Herbert Hoover, which undoubtedly were canvassed in the discussion.

Election Contest Case Is Postponed

August 13 is New Date for Hearing on Hemp-stead Case

The Hempstead county liquor election contest, scheduled to be resumed Tuesday in county court at Washington, was again postponed.

The new date for the hearing is Thursday, August 13, two days after the Democratic primary election.

One of the reasons for postponement Tuesday was caused when Circuit Judge County Judge Stephens on legal points, announced that he would be able to listen to the case only one day.

The second reason for postponement was because of the illness of Attorney Steve Carrigan, one of the lawyers for the contestants.

Two defendants pleaded guilty before Judge Bush and were sentenced. L. D. Briggs, negro, pleaded guilty to burglary and grand larceny and was sentenced to two to five years in the negro industrial school.

Bill Palmer, white man, was given a suspended sentence on a plea of guilty to burglary and grand larceny. Palmer was ordered to leave the state for five years.

Hypnotist Unable to Stir Amnesia Victim

NLM, Ark.—(AP)—Dr. J. D. Wilson, mayor of Uhm, said Monday that two attempts by a traveling hypnotist failed to restore the memory of a middle-aged woman found wandering the streets of this small village June 7.

Dr. Wilson said the woman is suffering from amnesia and that all efforts to locate any one who knows her have been futile.

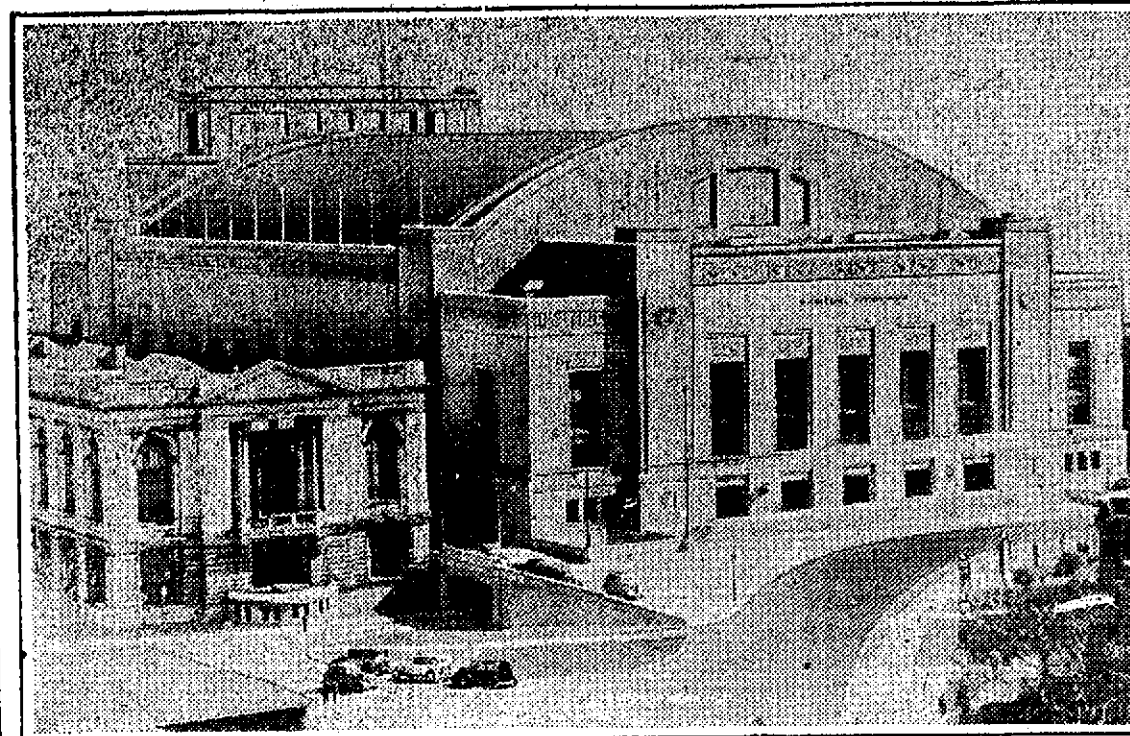

The hypnotist, Dr. P. U. Lopez, was brought here from Stuttgart by the mayor.

"Lopez's efforts to control the hypnotism so that she would not go soundly to sleep but only under his influence enough to be able to answer questions were of no avail," Dr. Wilson said.

"Lopez explained that her mind was so 'tired' from attempts to remember her past that she lapsed into sound sleep immediately."

The mayor said he was "going to stick with this amnesia case until I solve it."

First Nevada Bloom
The first Nevada county cotton bloom was displayed in Prescott Monday by Tom Thrasher who lives about a mile from the city on the old Washington road.

Mr. Thrasher said he picked the bloom Sunday. He has about 20 acres of cotton.

He said that he had better prospects for a bumper crop than at any time in his memory, but was beginning to need rain.

Reeda Reeves, son of the Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Reeves is spending a few days at home after serving four years in the U. S. Navy. He will report back for duty at Long Beach, Calif., about the first of July as Second Lieutenant. He is stationed on the ship U. S. S. Utah which will sail soon for the Hawaiian Islands.

The Prescott Garden club will meet Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Tompkins. All members are urged to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Munn and daughter, Imogene of Willisville, were recent visitors in Prescott.

Temperature Hits 107 in South Dakota

First Car Peaches Leaves Nashville

Elbertas Expected to Be Moving About Middle of July

NASHVILLE, Ark.—The first car of peaches shipped from here this season left Monday from the orchard of S. K. Stone. Another car was being loaded Tuesday.

The fruit is bringing $2 a bushel. Due to the April blizzard, only about seven cars of Early Rose and six cars of Fair Beauty are expected to be shipped. Most of it will be moved by truck. Elbertas are expected to start moving between July 15 and 20.

About 1,000 cars, a third of a normal crop is expected. Most of it will be shipped by rail of the price holds up.

Famous Ford Is Exhibited Here

3,000,000th V-8 Passes
Through Hope En Route to Dallas

The 3,000,000th V-8 Ford, latest of a group of Ford cars built since the Ford Motor company was established 33 years ago, passed through Hope Tuesday en route to Dallas, where it will be placed on exhibition in the Ford Exposition building at the Texas centennial exposition.

Accompanying the famous Ford were Jack Rooney of the Ford Motor company of Detroit; J. K. Lester and E. R. Rice of the Memphis Ford company, and other Ford officials.

The car was met at the edge of the city limits and escorted into town by Tom McLarty, manager of Hope Auto company, Mayor Albert Graves and others.

A short program was held in front of the Hope Auto company before the car proceeded to Dallas.

College Youth Is Held in Slaying

W. A. Campbell, Jr.,
Bound Over for Shooting of Brother-in-Law

HELENA, Ark.—(AP)—Waving preliminary hearing, W. A. Campbell Jr., 21, student at Arkansas College, Batesville, was held to the grand jury Monday in the slaying of his brother-in-law, J. A. McCraw, 28.

The shooting occurred Wednesday at the Campbell home, 15 miles west of here where officers said McCraw went to obtain belongings left when he and Mrs. McCraw left the place recently following a family quarrel.

Campbell was accused of opening fire with two pistols on his brother-in-law, fatally wounding him and killing a negro, Dave Johnson, 21, with stray bullet.

Nation's Debt Goes Above 34 Billions

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Treasury announced Monday night that the national debt had soared approximately $2,700,000 to a new peak of about $34,400,000,000 after completion of a record peace-time financing operation and allowing for bonus bonds.

Bulletins

TALLINN, Estonia—(AP)—Fifty-nine persons were reported killed and 29 injured in a munitions factory explosion Monday. It was announced officially Tuesday. Among those killed included nine officers of the Estonian navy.

BUDAPEST—(AP)—Twenty-four persons were reported drowned Tuesday when a ferry boat capsized in a bay on the Danube river.

OSLO, Norway—(AP)—Seven persons, all Norwegians, were killed Tuesday when a plane which they were flying crashed into a mountain at Sognefjord and burned. Three were passengers. The others killed included the crew.

President Signs Smith-Jones Bill

Act Is Aimed to Curb
Speculation on U. S.
Markets

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Grain, cotton and other commodity futures on exchanges were brought under a more rigid government regulation as President Roosevelt Tuesday signed the Jones-Smith commodity exchange bill.

The act aimed particularly at curbing speculation of grains, cotton, rice, mill feeds, potatoes, butter, eggs and other commodities through placing trading limits on contract markets.

It outlaws trading in indemnities and the so-called wash sales.

Civil Service Bill Passed by Senate

Will Prohibit Employees
From Seeking Influence to Get Promotions

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The senate passed Monday, 46 to 18, a bill to prevent Civil Service employees from seeking political influence to obtain promotions.

During the debate Senator Vandenberg (Rep., Mich.) asked if the bill would apply to the postmaster general.

Democratic Leader Robinson of Arkansas commented that political "intrigues" and "inside politics" were rife in the departments themselves.

The bill would require each Civil Service employee, on receiving a promotion, to file a sworn statement that he had not solicited influence from any member of congress, officer of a political committee, or any other political organization.

If such a statement should be found to be false the employee would be suspended for not more than six months, and for a second offense would be discharged.

Squirrel Shooting Season Is Ended

Open Season Will Not Be Legal Again Until Next October

The squirrel shooting season ended Monday and it will be illegal to shoot squirrels again until October 1, unless the courts hold that the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission has authority to fix the open season.

The season fixed several years ago by the legislature was from May 15 to June 15 and from October 1 to January 1, but a 1935 act attempted to give the commission authority to fix the season.

The commission fixed the season from August 15 to December 31, but a temporary injunction was obtained in Putaski Chancery Court restraining the commission from enforcing this regulation.

This left the season governed by the legislative act providing for a split season. The suit still is pending in the courts and unless the injunction is dissolved the season will remain closed until October 1.

Exhibits Bruises to Support Story Told at Memphis

Says They Were Chased
Out of East Arkansas
by Six White Men

OCCURS AT EARLE

Had Gone There to Conduct Funeral of Slain
Negro

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—A 20-year-old Memphis woman exhibited two black and blue bruises here Tuesday to support a story that she and a Negro minister were taken out and flogged by a band of six white men near Earle, Ark., late Monday. The bruises were across her back and were five inches wide.

The woman, Miss Ellie Sue Blagden, member of a prominent Memphis family, said she stood ready to go back and identify the men who had had reason to believe were planters.

Miss Blagden said that and the Rev. Claude Williams of Little Rock went to Earle to conduct the funeral of a Negro reported slain and instead they were escorted out of town, beaten and sent away.

Negro Reported Slain
MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Officials of the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union ordered a search throughout East Arkansas Monday night for the "body" of a Negro member they reported "slain."

H. L. Mitchell, secretary of the union declared at Memphis that members of the union had been unable to find the body of Frank Weems, 40-year-old striking Negro cotton chopper, who formerly worked on a farm near Earle, Ark. The union is sponsoring the strike.

Mitchell charged that Weems and a white man, James Reese, about 60, were beaten with baseball bats and clubs when a sharecropper's rally allegedly was "broken up" near Earle last Monday night. Reese, he said, escaped to Memphis, recovering. He said Weems's son reported to an Earle official that his father died the next day.

Sheriff Howard Curdin of Crittenden county, and officers at Earle denied knowledge of Weems' death or of an attack of a mob, but the Earle officers confirmed reports that Weems' funeral was planned for 1 p. m. Tuesday on the outskirts of the town.

To Put Teeth in State Traffic Law

Safety Council Names
Committee to Talk
With Futrell

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Plans for seeking legislative action to "put teeth" in traffic laws were mapped Monday by the Arkansas safety council and a committee was named to ask the governor to provide money from the emergency fund to employ an executive secretary.

The council invited officials of the revenue, highway and ranger departments to give their views on needed legislation at the July meeting. The legislative committee's draft is expected to be completed by September.

"The problem of highway fatalities is increasing, not diminishing," said Chairman C. P. Newton. "The legislature cannot wash its hands of responsibility."

Newton appointed J. H. Dunn, A. L. Rotenberry and Mrs. Scott Wood to the committee which will confer with the governor. An appropriation of $2000 to pay the salary and expenses of the secretary until the next legislative session was suggested.

"This is not any idea of getting any new commission started," said T. H. Alford of North Little Rock. Earlier, Alford and Eugene Williams of Conway had warned against any efforts to have new state commissions set up. Alford commenting:

"I am not in favor of creating any new commissions here in election year when we are talking economy in government."

Highway 71 Meeting at Mena Thursday

MENA, Ark.—(AP)—Governor Futrell and State Highway Department officials are expected to attend a meeting here Thursday of the Arkansas Division, U. S. Highway 71 Association. Discussion topics include plans to promote tourist travel on Highway 71 and to complete hard surfacing of the road through Arkansas.

Your Baby's Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

So important had cod liver oil been found for growth and development, that it is commonly given to chickens, cattle, dogs, and other animals, as well as to man. As I have already pointed out, it is especially important for the prospective mother, since she must supply vitamin D, calcium, and phosphorus not only for herself, but for the growing baby.

In addition to taking cod liver oil, however, there are other ways in which the baby may get the vitamin D that it requires. Most specialists in diseases of children still feel nevertheless, that babies are better off with cod liver oil than they are if dependent on some other method of getting vitamin D into their bodies.

Babies, in general, do not object to the taste of cod liver oil, which is usually best to give just before feeding. In rare instances, babies object to the taste of the oil, and sometimes have indigestion. Moreover, premature babies need much more vitamin D than do normal babies, and in such cases it may be desirable to use some of the other preparations.

Among preparations which may be prescribed are those of irradiated ergosterol or viosterol. This form of vitamin D is much more potent than cod liver oil. Because of its potency, it is best that it be prescribed by a doctor according to the baby's individual needs.

It is understood, of course, that the baby also gets some vitamin D by exposure to sun rays. Sun baths should always be given to the babies when the climate permits. They should be exposed gradually, however, permitting only a portion of the body to have the sun for a few minutes at first, and gradually increasing the area exposed until the whole body is tanned.

Not more than 10 to 15 minutes' exposure should be given at first. This may be increased later until the whole body is exposed to mild sunlight for as long as an hour.

In winter, when the rays coming from the sun have little vitamin D value, the doctor may recommend instead the use of artificial ultraviolet rays.

Most recently, vitamin D has been prescribed in the form of irradiated milk products. Those examined and passed by the Committee on Foods of the American Medical Association, will bear labels indicating the amount of vitamin D units that they contain, and it is possible to compare these units with those of cod liver oil.

But, even though a quart of milk will provide the same number of units of vitamin D as are provided by two or three teaspoonfuls of cod liver oil, you should see that the baby actually gets all the milk, to be certain that it gets all the vitamin D that it needs.

For children who cannot take this amount of milk, it may be better to rely on cod liver oil or viosterol.

Halibut liver oil, when reinforced with viosterol, has a high content of both vitamins A and D. Certain food substances, such as egg yolk and butter, also contain considerable amounts of vitamin D, but it is not well to depend on these substances alone to provide the child with sufficient insurance against rickets.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

"I'm going to write to Papa, and, oh, how glad he'll be to get my little letter."

"Dear Dad, I need a V."

When the SOS arrives from Sonny who is outing with some friends up near the Whickahanney or down where the Ochagong flows into the Upajisco, Mother weeps tears of joy and relief while Dad says with assumed sternness, "He WOULD write for money; I gave him ten dollars before he started." But secretly he lingers because the epistle was addressed to him.

Now, then, this business of letter writing. Should we parents expect youngsters to step out of their sweet dreams long enough to pencil a note home once in a while?

You can just bet we should. There isn't one bit of sense in handing the earth to our offspring, in so far as we are able, and then paying the penalty of watching for the postman day after day—with nothing in his hand when he does come but a circular from a summer hotel.

No Trip For Dad

Summer hotel, indeed! Sonny Boy's extra tuition to get him through his tests took enough to give us a smell of the sea. And then after all his hard study, along came this chance to go to that camp on the big Smith estate. Carfare, and waders, and tackle and other gadgets would have given us several whiffs of the sea. But did we stop to ponder about Dad's twitch or our own sleeplessness? No, that healthy young cub needed a rest.

So he went off whistling and waving and promising to write. In his bag we put a dozen or so self-addressed, stamped postals. Yeah, he'd watch that rub on his foot. No, if he got a cold he wouldn't go in the water. Oh, shucks, that old dam was safe enough; you didn't fish above it, you fished below it. Sure he'd send a card every day.

So after the first note, of course, there was a dead silence of a week. Then a touch for money. Mr. Smith's manager was taking them on a little excursion. Sorry that he hadn't written for a couple of days, but he'd been "awful" busy.

Should Share Fun

For which he needed a good shaking. Good gracious, parents aren't lying awake seeing things in the dark. They do worry some, perhaps, but they aren't so weak-minded as a rule as to let their children do things that aren't reasonably safe. It isn't that so much as an empty place in the pit of the stomach, when you can't share even a few pennied lines of the good time you have been at some trouble to make possible. We have a right, say I, to some sort of vicarious thrill over our son's or daughter's foray into the unknown. He who pays the piper certainly should be allowed to look through the window.

Children forget, yes. They are the best forgetters you ever saw. They mean so well, but they don't think the same things important that their parents do. Anyway, when the train goes round the bend a good resolution should be aboard right inside John's head—to write home.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

The politician lives by promises and forecasts, and it can be a cruel thing to remind him of them. It can also be a great deal of fun.

Two fine examples of this are to be found in a pair of remarkably little, matured little books—"Surplus Prophets" (Viking; $1), and "America Today" (Jefferson House; 35 cents).

The first recalls the dour prophecies of the anti-New Dealers and subjects the prophets to ridicule. The second does just the opposite, picking up some of Mr. Roosevelt's campaign promises and extracting a few sardonic chuckles from the contemplation of what happened to them.

In "Surplus Prophets," for instance, we find Mr. Hoover's doleful prediction that "the country would grow in the streets," followed by quotations from the financial columns showing the rise of business in 1936 to near prosperity levels.

We find John J. Raskob issuing a Liberty League statement telling how he made a competence by hard work

HOLLYWOOD.—Here it is getting well along into the month of Mendelschohn and orange blossoms, and there's romance in the air.

One who hopes it is in the air is the pilot who operates a honeymoon ex-

And, in "America Today," we see Mr. Roosevelt's promise to cut expenditures and balance the budget get along with newspaper headlines telling of progressively increasing expenditures and a progressively unbalanced budget.

His promise to maintain a sound currency appears opposite a headline of 1934 telling of dollar devaluation.

And so it goes. Whichever side you are on, you will enjoy at least one of these books. It may be that you will get a kick out of both of them.

Not all Hollywood romance is genuine, of course. Movie makers and their press agents make and rearrange alliances for publicity's sake. But occasionally they start something that's finished by a preacher.

Louise Latimer and Owen Davis, Jr. have walked down the aisle together for the benefit of the cameras. Likewise, Kay Francis and George Brent, and Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy, are saying "I do" for film sequences. Herbert Marshall still pays court to Gloria Swanson affstage, but on the set he is Ruth Chatterton's husband.

Ginger Rogers, recently separated from Lew Ayers, is going about with James Stewart. Gene Raymond and Jeanette MacDonald are seen together, and Ann Sothern and Roger Fryer are a twosome.

The GLAMOROUS ADVENTURE

by Jean Seiwright © 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GAIL EVERETT, ambitious to become a designer, comes to New York and—due to a stroke of luck—is hired by MADAME LIZETTE, proprietor of an exclusive shop. Madame proves temperamental and difficult to work for.

DEREK HARGREAVES, young artist, is interested in Gail. She also frequently sees DICK SEARLES, whose sister, MISS MARY, was her roommate at school.

Meanwhile, in Arizona, Gail's uncle, MARK CHAPMAN, returns home after years of wandering, and finds his old home in the hands of the Travers Mining Co. Mark suspects the deal is crooked and gets in touch with GILES HARDING, New York lawyer. Harding tries to locate Gail.

Derek asks Gail to marry him and she agrees. Later a misunderstanding comes between them and LUCILLE TRAVERS, who wants Derek for herself, tells him that Gail is to marry Dick Searles.

Giles Harding comes to see Gail and tells her about the plot to buy her land, really worth a fortune. Gail's pleasure in learning that she is rich is dimmed by the fact that no word has come from Derek.

One difficulty after another sweeps the Travers company into financial ruin. Gail, believing Derek is in love with Lucille, expects to hear that they will be married soon.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV

NATALIE settled herself comfortably against a pillow. "I don't see why you haven't married Dick Searles long ago," she said, eyeing Gail. "He's an awfully nice chap—and then look at all the money he has. I know he's crazy about you. They all are; you'd never have any in-law troubles. I'm sorry I didn't see Mr. Searles."

The visit on Long Island was over and the two girls were back at the clubhouse, discussing the week-end.

"Yes," Gail agreed. "I'm sorry, too, that he wasn't there, but he was called away unexpectedly."

"To Arizona, wasn't it?"

"Is he interested in mines too?"

"Oh, he's interested in lots of different things. Perhaps mining is one of them, though I think this trip was in connection with some land he owns. Rosemary said something about an irrigation project. She thinks it would be a grand idea for us to fly out there with Dick and bring her father home."

"Oh, that would be great! Then you could meet your uncle and see your property," exclaimed Natalie.

"Yes, that's what she said."

"Why don't you do it, Gail?"

"Maybe I will."

GAIL tossed the morning newspaper aside. She knew she must make up her mind about a number of things. There was the proposed trip to Arizona and she did want to meet her long-lost uncle. Then there was Dick—he was still urging her to marry him. He'd asked her again this last week-end and again she'd turned him down. She really ought to do something about an apartment, but that hinged partly on her plans after her trip to the west.

Her little room was growing hotter by the minute, for it of the morning sun. Suddenly, a thought of the announcement, she had read about the gardens of Mrs. Peter Hinchcliffe on Long Island, being open to the public today, a benefit affair for crippled children.

She picked up the telephone and learned that a train would leave in half an hour. She decided to go. It would be lovely to spend a day beneath the green, young-leaved trees, to hear birds sing instead of the raucous noises of Manhattan.

Perhaps away from all the clamor and dirt of the city she would be able to make up her mind about her problems.

"WELL," Mrs. Morton said, smiling, "this is a pleasure. I'm helping Mrs. Hinchcliffe and I'll be busy meeting all those people"—and her dark eyes roved across the landscape—"but I must have a talk with you, Gail. Won't you have tea with me about 4 o'clock? I'll meet you at the door of the Marquee."

"That will be lovely," Gail answered, though Mrs. Morton's keen eyes were quick to sense that beneath the girl's apparent brightness something was troubling her.

Bluebirds were darting about the old trees whose blossoms had already given place to miniature editions of the fine fruit they would bear later on. Gorgeous butterflies flew toward the garden and now and then there came the sharp "Tap, tap" of a woodpecker, carrying on his crusade for the extermination of grubs. How peaceful it was! Too peaceful even to disturb one's self solving problems.

"So you've enjoyed the afternoon? I'm so glad," declared Mrs. Morton later, adding a lump of sugar to her tea.

"Oh, it's been beautiful, but I've been terribly lazy. I thought when I came out here I'd have peace to think out some of my problems, but I'm no nearer to any conclusions."

"Have you so many problems then?"

"Quite a few," Gail told about her changed financial circumstances and the end of her career at Madame Lizette's.

"What about Derek Hargreaves? When are you going to marry him?"

Gail was silent.

"Then you haven't seen him yet?" Mrs. Morton continued. "I think that is a mistake. That young man loves you, but remember a less scrupulous woman than you can usually turn a man's heart where she wants it—no matter how fine or strong he is, perhaps because he is so gallant. Besides, if a man feels that the woman he loves is neglecting him he has an excuse for straying."

THAT night Gail could not settle down to anything. She had turned down an invitation from Natalie to join her and some other girls who were going to some affair.

At last she pulled on a hat, deciding to go for a walk. It would at least kill time. She sauntered along aimlessly. Then suddenly she found herself before the building where Derek's studio was. Sometimes he worked at night. Gail glanced up and saw that a dim light gleamed against the long north windows. So he was working tonight!

She walked on more slowly. How could Derek paint in that light? But perhaps he was not working. Mrs. Morton had suggested that Gail should go to his studio and explain things. But she had nothing to explain!

She was on Park avenue now, but it was not the Park avenue of winter when luxurious limousines speed along and women, richly dressed in furs that cost fortunes and jewels worth ransoms, pass into magnificent hotels, accompanied by immaculate escorts. Tired mothers from less favored streets were dragging fretful children by their sticky little hands, seeking a breath of fresh air.

A car stopped at the curb and Gail saw a tall young woman, swathed in an evening wrap of sheer black velvet, step quickly within the tessellated hall of a handsome apartment house.

Could Gail have followed she would have seen the young woman slip off the cape as she entered Don Luis Doro's apartment. It was Lucille Travers.

"Luis," she whispered in tragic tones, as the Japanese butler closed the door of the library. "I've made up my mind. I'm ready to marry you if you'll take me away from New York."

"Beautiful, I knew you'd come to me at last," The swarthy, middle-aged beef baron from the Argentine, pressed his lips to Lucille's.

Quillen and Stafford to Meet for Six Rounds Tuesday Night

A five-year-old grudge between Burlin Quillen, oil field worker of the Spring Hill community south of Hope, and Herbert Stafford, local S. C. S. employee, is scheduled to be settled Tuesday night when the two meet in the ring of the South Walnut street arena.

Promoter Bert Mauldin said that the two were anxious to get a punch at each other's nose, and that he had given them an opportunity to settle their difficulties with the gloves.

The scheduled bout is for six rounds. Mauldin said that W. C. Page would officiate and that the two combatants would mix it according to the rules of boxing.

Mauldin said the six rounds of boxing would open the show, starting promptly at 8:15.

Last week a 20-minute delay in starting time was caused when one of the professional wrestlers hesitated to go into the ring. There will be no delay this week, Mauldin said.

In the semi-final of Tuesday night's show Lefty Williams, Cobot plowboy, will take on Speedy Schaffer, East St. Louis, Ill. grappler. The bout is based on two out of three falls with a 45-minute time limit.

In the main event Frank (Frankenstein) Wolf has been signed to meet George Ligovsky, better known of late as the bearded Russian. Wolf appeared here last week for the first time, winning two straight falls over Lefty Williams.

Ligovsky appeared here once or twice last summer. Admission will be 25 cents.

With every rising of the sun,
Think of your life as just begun.
The past has shriveled and buried deep,
All yesterday; there let them sleep.
Nor seek to summon back one ghost
Of that innumerable host.
Concern yourself with but today.
Go to it, and teach it to obey.
Your will and wish. Since time began
Today has been the friend of man;
But in his blindness and his sorrow,
He looks to yesterday and tomorrow.
You, and today, a soul sublime,
And the great pregnant hour of time.
With God himself to bind the twin!
Go forth, I say, Attain, attain!

'First Lady' of Landon Household

A mother of whom the three Landon children may well be proud—young, slender, attractive, an accomplished musician—Mrs. Theo Cobb Landon, wife of the Republican presidential nominee, is pictured above in this most recent, characteristic portrait. And, incidentally, that alluring right-cheek dimple had much to do with her status as possible next First Lady of the United States. Topekans hint that it was this facial feature which first captivated Alf Landon's admiration.

Love of Home Is Important Says Comely Mrs. Alf Landon

By the Associated Press
Twelve years a widow, Alf M. Landon, wealthy independence, Kans. oil man active in politics, set up offices in Topeka, state capital, to manage the gubernatorial campaign of Clyde M. Reed.
The year was 1928. Reed was successful.

So was Landon, shortly after, in another pursuit.
During the campaign he met Miss Theo Cobb, daughter of a Topeka banker. Brown-eyed, dimpled, slender and erect, she captured his heart. His courtship of two years was enlivened by frequent expeditions into the Kansas countryside in an unceasing search for American antiques, glassware and lustreware.
Miss Cobb was an ardent collector; an accomplished pianist and harpist, she had studied music abroad, and in Belgium and Holland had begun to gather objects that had outlived their usefulness but not their beauty.

On January 15, 1930, they were married and went to live in Independence in a big, "porch" house. Two years later he brought her back with him to the governor's mansion at Topeka.

An Eventful Week

Mrs. Landon probably will always remember that last week of July, 1932. Her husband brought in a 500-barrel oil well and received the Republican nomination for governor. She became the mother of a baby girl who was named Nancy Josephine. Nancy Jo will be four July 29.

On December 28, 1933, another child was born to the Landons' John Cobb, who also is called Jack. As soon as he was able to walk, Nancy Jo appointed herself guardian and custodian of her younger brother.

Alf Landon may be the governor of Kansas and the Republican nominee for President; but first of all he is her husband, and she schedules his sleep, oversees his food, tries to make the lives of their two children as normal as possible despite their life in the governor's mansion.

Has Ready Smile

Mrs. Landon, now 36, has a ready smile, heightened by a single dimple in her right cheek. Her complexion is fresh, her dark brown eyes sparklingly vivacious. A wisp of white highlights her black hair, mementos of an automobile accident eight years ago.

She likes to ride horseback, which is also a favorite recreation of her husband.

She handled efficiently the gubernatorial order that the mansion's expenses, as a part of the Kansas retrenchment and budgeting which contributed to the political rise of her husband, must be trimmed 25 per cent. Schooled in finance by her father, she has followed his admonition: "Save at least a portion of your income."

For the family table she likes plenty of vegetables. Her husband favors steaks and good meat cuts, game and fish. She sees that he gets them for dinner. His lunch is usually no more than soup and pie. Mrs. Landon often does the cooking.

Landon Likes Bridge

While Governor Landon is fond of bridge, and often plays the game with men friends, Mrs. Landon doesn't care much for it.

Cotton Spurts to New Highs Monday

October Is Only Month Not Topping Record Mark of Season

NEW ORLEANS.—(AP)—Cotton made new highs for the season, with one exception Monday, as active buying came into the market during the final half of trading.

At new crop options but the October position sold at the highest levels of the life of the contracts. December reached 11.18, January touched 11.13 and March sold at 11.19.

In the final hour a portion of the gains were cancelled and prices dipped from their highs, but closed steady, net unchanged to around 25 cents a bale higher with July at 11.09, October at 11.14, December and January both at 11.09.

The trade interpreted several week-end developments bullishly. Among these were improved cables from Liverpool, good, dry goods sales and increased mill activity both here and abroad.

The droughty southeast was relieved in certain areas over the week-end by heavy showers, but the trade paid little attention to this potentially bearish development.

Contracts were scarce during the entire season. The trade did the major part of the buying. Speculative interests were active on the early advance. Cotton was supplied by hedge offerings.

Perfect Coffee Is Easy to Make
I know good housekeepers who say that they can't make good coffee, that they always have had luck with pie crust, that their coffee is terrible. Seems pretty silly, though, doesn't it, when these things are so simple to get right?

Coffee-making is the most universal problem of the lot. The fact that a coffee is expensive doesn't necessarily mean that you will have good coffee if you use it. The price you pay is no all-important, nor the guarantee. That it be fresh, though, matters greatly.

Measure Ingredients
Decide how many cups you will need for the meal. Then allow one full measuring cup of water to each cup of coffee required. If you use a

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Chilled melon, cereal cooked with raisins, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Cream of garden spinach soup, toast sticks, potato and sardine salad, sour cream cookies, grape juice.

Dinner: Broiled lamb chops on toast, new peas in cream, endive salad with French dressing, chilled custard with fresh fruit, milk, coffee.

percolator, start with cold water. Use 2 level tablespoons of coffee for each cup of water and two extra tablespoons for the pot. This formula always applies whether you have a percolator or some other kind of pot.

Let the water boil and the minute it begins to come up through the top of the percolator, notice the time. When the coffee has percolated ten minutes, take the pot from the fire.

Filtered coffee is made by pouring boiling water—but it must be actively boiling—over finely ground coffee.

Gravy can be made successfully two ways. One way is to stir the flour into the proper amount of fat in the roasting pan or spider and add the right amount of cold water, stirring until the gravy boils and is perfectly smooth.

Alternate Recipe

The other way to make it is to add water to the fat in the pan and bring it to the boiling point. Put some sifted flour into a bowl and slowly add cold water, stirring to make a perfectly smooth paste. Add enough more water to make the paste pour easily and pour into the boiling gravy stock. Season with salt and pepper and cook and stir until boiling. Use two tablespoons flour—level—to thicken two cups of gravy. This kind of gravy should boil several minutes after it thickens. It's easy to make but you must have the paste perfectly smooth and free from lumps. Lumps will not cook out, you see. They will swell in the hot stock and be even larger.

Bacon is another simple food often poorly cooked. Remember that all cured meats must be cooked slowly. The curing process dries and firms the tissue to a certain extent, making it imperative to cook it over a low flame to prevent crisping before the meat is sufficiently done. Put bacon in a cold spider and cook slowly, pouring off the fat and never letting it smoke.

About Frying Bacon

If you fry eggs in bacon fat, return the bacon fat to the spider and heat but do not let it reach the smoking point. Slip the eggs into the fat, which should be just hot enough to cook the white without curling at the edges. Cover the frying pan and cook until the white is firm and the yolks are pink on top. It will take about five minutes to fry an egg this way. Never let the fat reach the smoking point.

When you cook a slice of ham, trim some of the fat from the edges and rub it over a heavy iron frying pan which has been heated just enough to melt the fat and make the surface of the spider look shiny. Cook the spider for a few minutes and then put in the slice of ham and cook over a low fire.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

With MAJOR HOOPLE

WELL, WELL—THE OLD UMBRELLA HAS TURNED UP AGAIN—I WAS A LITTLE WORRIED YOU'D BEEN CAUGHT IN A NET AT THE POLITICAL SWIM—I SEE YOU WERE JOCKEYED INTO SOMEONE ELSE'S BREECHES IN THE LAST HEAT OF YOUR ELBOW-BENDING DERBY!

EGAD, HAS THE NEWS OF THAT DRATTED DING GAME OUT-DISTANCED ME?

GREETINGS, MY FAIRY QUEEN, HAW—SO YOU READ OF THE CONFLAGRATION IN MY HOSTELRY! EGAD, MY DEAR, I WAS FORTUNATE TO ESCAPE WITH MY LIFE!

THE RETURN OF THE PRODIGAL—

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

I WAS JUST THINKING, GEE! DOESN'T IT SEEM LIKE YEARS SINCE WE WERE DOWN ON THE ISLAND?

YES, INDEED! BUT THAT TREASURE, WE LOST, SEEMS JUST AS REAL AS IT EVER DID

ALLEY OOP

HAS IT GOT HIM, YET?

YOU SAID IT! THAT GUYS LIFE AINT WORTH A BUSTED AXE HANDLE!

HAH! JUS' WHAT I THOUGHT! TH' BIG, BAD PUBLIC ENEMY COULDN'T TAKE IT!

WASH TUBBS

HEY, BUDDIE, I GOTTA SEE SOMEBODY WHO TRUCKS NITROGLYCERIN.

HEV, JOE, A COP WANTS TO SEE YOU.

YOU TRUCK NITROGLYCERIN?

I'M A SHOOTER, YEAH.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

WELL, DIDN'T YOU JUST FIX THINGS UP DANDY! YOU SCARED POODLES HALF TO DEATH WITH THAT CAP PISTOL... HE MAY NEVER COME BACK!!

I'M SORRY, FRECK!

FRECKLES, I PIECED TOGETHER ALL THE BONES WE HAD, AND HAVE NEARLY COMPLETED THE WHOLE SPECIMEN OF A SABER-TOOTHED TIGER!

THE SKELETON IS COMPLETE... ALL WE NEED IS THE HEAD!

YEAH, WELL, POODLES JUST LOST HIS... HE RAN OUT OF HERE AN' WE HAVEN'T SEEN HIM SINCE!

MYRA NORTH, SPECIAL NURSE

UPON ENTERING SIR EDMOND'S TENT, MYRA BEGINS A SYSTEMATIC SEARCH FOR THE SECRET PLANS OF THE TOMB.

THE DOCTOR WANTS THOSE PLANS—I MUST FIND THEM—

THAT'S STRANGE—A LIGHT IN FATHER'S TENT—I JUST LEFT HIM OVER ON THE OTHER SIDE OF CAMP!

OUT OUR WAY

By WILLIAMS

AH! DOAN KNOW WHAR DE COOK KEEPS THINGS, SO YO'LL JES KINDER HAB TER HEP YOSELF!

SALT

THE FREIGHTER

It's An Ill Wind—

HOWEVER, I GUESS EVEN THAT MISERABLE STROKE OF LUCK HAD ITS GOOD POINTS

FOR ONE THING, POVERTY DOESN'T HOLD SO MUCH HORROR FOR ME, NOW! NO MATTER HOW PINCHED I MIGHT BE, THERE WILL ALWAYS BE SOME COMFORT IN KNOWING HOW RICH I MIGHT HAVE BEEN

All By Hise Lonesome

WELL, THAT'S THAT! BUT, ANYHOW, I'VE GOT A GOOD HUNCH THAT TH' SEASHORE IS NOT A HEALTHY AVENUE OF ESCAPE FROM THIS GOOFY PLACE...

SO I GUESS I'LL JUS' HAFTA KEEP ON LOOKIN'—BUT, FIRST, I GOTTA FIGGER OUT SOME WAY OF GETTIN' RID OF THOSE GUARDS OL' KING WUR'S GOT 'TRAILIN' ME!

WELL, WELL! HUH! IT KINDA LOOKS AS IF I AINT GONNA HAFTA BOTHER ABOUT FIGGERIN', AFTER ALL—

Shooting the Works

WOT TH' SHOOTER?

HE'S AN ARTIST. HE'S S'POSED TO LOAD TRUCKS WITH GLYCERINE DRIVE OVER ROUGH ROADS. POUR THE SOAP INTO SHELLS, LOWER 'EM INTO OIL WELLS AN' DISCHARGE 'EM WITHOUT DAMAGE TO MAN, BEAST OR PROPERTY.

OIL DOESN'T JUST GUSH OUTA THE GROUND WHEN YOU DRILL A WELL, SEE. YOU GOTTA GIVE 'ER A SHOT OF GLYCERIN FIRST—LOOSEN UP THE OIL BEARING SANDS A MILE OR MORE, DOWN IN THE EARTH. THAT'S WHAT A SHOOTER DOES.

Desperate

I'M ABOUT TO GO COMPLETELY GOOFY WE NEED THE DOG TO HELP US FIND THE TIGER SKULL, AN' NOW WE CAN'T FIND THE DOG!

WE'LL HAVE TO ADVERTISE!

THAT WON'T DO ANY GOOD. POODLES DOESN'T READ!

WELL, IF HE'S STILL GOING AT THE SPEED HE STARTED, HE OUGHTA BE SOMEWHERE IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF CHINA!!

A Tight Place

AH—HERE IT IS! I KNEW I COULD FIND THOSE PLANS!

WELL! IT APPEARS THAT OUR FAIR- HAired NURSE IS INTERESTED IN EGYPTOLOGY, AFTER ALL! DON'T MOVE, PLEASE, OR—
